Technological research, high quality materials, craftsmanship and style. These are the factors that characterize a Fasem product project, giving life to a design object that must ensure that form and content, and aesthetics and functionality can coexist. We create products that are entirely handmade in Tuscany, home to one of the oldest leather and hide leather processing traditions in the world.

Fasem has been in business for over 50 years. A long history that began with the production of metal parts for chairs, and since the 1980s moving towards design, and then the finished product.
